ABOUT DEVOPSDAYS

DevOpsDays is a technical conference for developers, system administrators and anyone else, whether expert or beginner, involved in technology. With technology and responsibilities crossing over expertises, DevOps is a movement that rapidly spread through the technical community along with the adoption of Agile techniques. DevOpsDays take place all over the world as self-organized events which community members who are passionate about their work attend. Presentations in the format of keynotes, ignites, workshops and open spaces is unique to this event. It is highly interactive and invigorating for attendees.

WHY SPONSOR DEVOPSDAYS RALEIGH

Raleigh is one of the fastest growing locations in the tech community. With many companies in the technology industry headquartered or planning to move their operations here, it's a beacon for DevOps. This is your company's chance to meet these people, gain their attention, and interact with people who are or will become leaders in the DevOps community. The McKimmon Center is located just 13 miles from RDU International Airport and Research Triangle Park (RTP), the largest research park in the country. It is also conveniently located just four miles from downtown Raleigh, 20 miles from downtown Durham, and 26 miles from Chapel Hill.

In 2019, our fourth year, sold out with over 500 attendees. Our first year back in person in 2022 had more than 300 attendees, and we expect 500 for 2023.

A SHORTLIST OF YEAR OVER YEAR ATTENDING COMPANIES INCLUDE:

Avanade	Dell	AWS	Toshiba	Dude Solutions

DevOpsDays Raleigh Highlights:

- Diverse keynote presentations from DevOps experts and thought leaders – previous speakers include John Willis, Jayne Groll, Nathen Harvey, Ken Mugrage, and many other DevOps community leaders
- Estimated over 500 DevOps professionals attending
- Ignite Sessions
- Leaders and experts in the DevOps community
- Open Spaces Sessions
- Hands-On Workshops

Keynotes:

Keynote presentations are approximately 25 minutes in length. From previous years' feedback, the audience likes presentations which are entertaining, but also give them something learned to apply for their future projects. Case studies, how-to's, and failed lessons are preferred.

Ignites:

Presenters have 20 slides which automatically advance every 15 seconds. The result is a fast and fun presentation which lasts just 5 minutes. If you want to see a few examples of the format, you can find a few at <http://igniteshow.com/>. Make sure to visit our ignite karaoke where conference attendees can volunteer to participate. We provide them with 5 slides that automatically advance every 10 seconds – improvise!

Workshops:

If your company is interested in hosting a workshop to last approximately 90 minutes with a 15-minute break, please submit that in the propose a talk section of the website. These will take place concurrent with open space and/or keynote sessions. Workshops will be chosen based on merit and expected interest level from attendees. It is not required to be a paying sponsor to submit for a workshop session, and workshop presenters are not chosen because their company is a sponsor. Submissions for all talks close January 15, 2023.

Open Spaces:

Most DevOpsDays events are a combination of curated talks and self-organized conversations. The self-organized content is known as “open spaces.” Open spaces give attendees the opportunity to talk about anything they'd like; for instance, a person might suggest a topic they want to learn about, or one they feel like they can help others with. The topics range widely from highly technical, to pure culture, to board games for networking.

A reminder from DevOpsDays.org: "DevOpsDays does not ever distribute attendee contact information. Do not expect badge scanning of any sort. Most events don't even collect information about job title. Sometimes company affiliation is on the badges, and sometimes it's not.

If you want to collect leads, you'll have to talk directly with individuals and request their contact info. Vendors also often raffle off prizes ranging from large Lego sets to tablets and other desirable items, collecting contact info in the process."
